

Spring 2014 Proseminar
Kant's Critique of Pure Reason

This course will be a student driven seminar on Kant's masterpiece, the Critique of Pure Reason. We will begin with a brief overview of Kant's critical philosophy and an even briefer discussion of Kant's pre-critical writings. Following this, we will explore the 'Copernican Revolution' in philosophy that Kant develops in the first Critique, paying special attention to Kant's theories of sensibility and understanding, his account of self-consciousness, and the distinction between phenomena and noumena. We will end by considering Kant's treatment of religion and morality in the final sections of the Critique, as well how Kant's philosophy has been received by both historical and contemporary critics.

TUESDAYS

11:10-1:00

CRN 90857

PHIL 4198.10

PROF. LAURA PAPISH

LAURAPAPISH@
GWU.EDU